

Ameena Mayer in Conversation with Stephen Buckley

by Stephen Elliott-Buckley - Saturday, June 24, 2006

<http://politicsrespun.org/2006/06/ameena-mayer-in-conversation-with-stephen-buckley/>

Ameena Mayer chats with Stephen Buckley about a range of political and social issues [52 minutes, 48MB]:

- her life as a poet, musician, teacher and activist
- the environment and lifestyle choices to have a lighter ecological footprint
- first nations issues
- globalization
- feminism
- race issues
- Vancouver's Downtown Eastside Women's Centre
- peak oil, Iraq, Afghanistan, occupation, insurgencies
- corporations as cancerous Frankensteins
- corporations as psychotic personalities that encourage consumers in the OECD world to behave like psychotic personalities in competition in a zero-sum world of finite resources instead of living in community
- our society's emotional vacancy/dysfunction and the role capitalism plays in this
- people's inability to have long term relationships

Podcast at <http://dgiVista.org/pod/Ameena.mp3>

Podcast feed at http://dgivista.org/pod/Vista_Podcasts.xml