In the last 15 months, Bill Bennett has blamed just "some folks" at a pub for wanting to give away free beer to lure voters in during the provincial election campaign and now he is blaming a staff member for calling some activists "eco-facists" [sic].

I used to think it was just him being lucky in the plausible deniability department.

1. Why doesn't Bill Bennett have a final read over of emails "he" sends out?
2. Why isn't he actually responsible for ensuring his campaign follows the law?
3. Or does he just like to blame other people when he gets called out for inappropriate behaviour?

Whatever the case, I hope he runs for leader of the BC Liberal party.
