

Get Uppity, BC, or Get Screwed Again

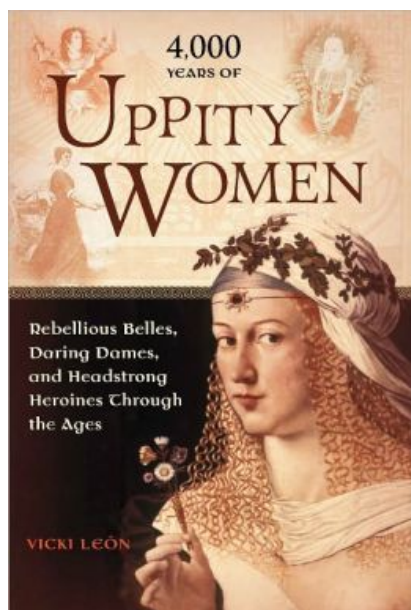

by Stephen Elliott-Buckley - Tuesday, September 20, 2016

<https://politicsrespun.org/2016/09/get-uppity-bc-or-get-screwed-again/>

I've written about being "uppity" many times before.

It's a controversial word.

1. It's been used to insult women and people of colour who don't know their place. Who don't know they should keep quiet and not try to cut back on white male entitlement. Don't ya know.
2. The fear of being uppity creates a chill that discourages many people from trying to upset the social order.

But really, British Columbians, if you want BC to slink even deeper into the right-wing neoliberal sewer, you better get uppity, and fast. Because you didn't in 2005, 2009 and 2013.

Complacency and apathy are awesome goals of contemptuous politicians.

If you think the current government has any interest in making BC better for anyone other than the 1% and carbon energy corporations in particular, you may be complacent or apathetic.

For instance, if you think a BC Liberal cabinet minister should be applauded for winning medals at the Paralympic Games, you may not realize that maybe you should be stunned at how hatred of the poor and disabled shouldn't be government policy.

But there's a cure!

It's here. Get uppity and read this:

<http://politicsrespun.org/2016/01/we-must-completely-obliterate-the-bc-liberal-party/>