I don't need to add anything here. If you like/hate what you read, click the link and get up to speed on the rest of it!

White feminists: this is a call for you to get your shit together. The point of equality isn't to claw your way to the top so that you can treat other people just as badly as white dudes have treated you -- we need to elevate each other, amplify each other's voices, and maybe let someone else tell us if we're allowed to be on their team. Because, as per Flavia Dzodan, if your feminism is not intersectional, then I'm sorry but it's complete bullshit.

 by "white feminism" I mean a certain demographic of white women who are straight, cis and able-bodied and view their brand of "feminism" as being better and more "real" than that of anyone else's.*
