

I've Decided to Become a Paris Hilton Fan, So Should You!

by Stephen Elliott-Buckley - Thursday, June 28, 2007

<https://politicsrespun.org/2007/06/ive-decided-to-become-a-paris-hilton-fan-so-should-you/>

The Old, Debauched Paris:

The New, Squeaky Clean, Adorable Paris:

I'm sold!

It is clear to me that Paris Hilton has embraced a tone of contrition. She has embarked on life after incarceration with a brand new image of humility and a sparkling new girl next door haircut.

Perhaps she is concerned that it is time to grow up and leave her partying ways behind her. She was rebellious and disrespectful of her adoring public. She is "serious about leaving her famously party-loving past behind."

Perhaps jail was her equivalent of Drew Barrymore flashing her boobs at Letterman, but now Paris seeks the kind of respectability and success that Drew now knows.

In the end, you be the judge. Media has nurtured a month-long boner over her tribulations. It lives to create an international obsession to milk ad dollars with a compliant public.

Paris is doing her job. She is keeping the "news"[sic] industry/business rolling right along.

God bless Paris Hilton.