

London Bombings: One View

by Stephen Elliott-Buckley - Saturday, July 09, 2005

<https://politicsrespun.org/2005/07/london-bombings-one-view-2/>

I think this about sums it up, except that the US/UK imperialists don't have a monopoly on terrorism:

"Terrorist Blair, who assisted The US Empire in raining death down upon the Iraqi populace, though Iraq harboured no weapons of mass destruction and posed no direct military threat to either Britain or the US, and is admitted, even by Rumsfeld, to have had no connections to Al Quaida, has regrettably reaped for the British people what he has sown in their name. And his sanctimounious [sic] posturing about "terrorism" doesn't change the reality of who are the real terrorists all one wit. And we all really know it."