From the Legislature today:

On the ethnic outreach memo controversy:

The Premier has made a categorical assertion, not weeks ago, days ago, that this was not the case. Now, I appreciate that new information may come forward, and the Premier may feel she was incorrect a number of days ago. But that information clearly was wrong.

So what we need from the Premier today, I think, is at least an acceptance, an understanding that what was said, that the assertion that was made by the Premier that this did not involve her staff — it involved somebody else, but not the Premier's office — was incorrect. Will the Premier confirm that today?

The Premier:

"I would ask the member to be careful to characterize what I said, which was that there is no evidence that I'm aware of that my staff was involved in this. As far as I know, my staff were only involved in creating it. That is what I said, and that remains true."
