

Politics, Re-Spun on Coop Radio, September 5, 2011

by Stephen Elliott-Buckley - Tuesday, September 06, 2011

<http://politicsrespun.org/2011/09/politics-re-spun-on-coop-radio-september-5-2011/>

<http://vimeo.com/28650250>

Spending Labour Day with Imtiaz Popat on "The Rational" on Vancouver's COOP Radio, talking about Christy Clark's revocation of a pre-2013 election date [coup, not really a premier, perhaps a "notional premier"], the end of the HST, the BCTF negotiations and how the courts noted how the government yanked almost $3 billion from BC's K-12 system over the last 10 years, the federal NDP leadership race and the Canucks riot report as it relates to Vancouver's municipal political scene.

Apologies for the abrupt ending: technical difficulties.

And a note on the BCTF strike action in Kelowna: it sounded ambiguous that the teachers were the ones who canceled recess. The teachers are going to start the school year not supervising at recess. The school board decided to cancel recess. This way, administrators don't have to supervise that 15 minute chunk of time each year. See here.